PREFACE.

To the Citizens of Des Moines:

In presenting to you the DIRECTORY of our city for 1875 we have no doubt that our efforts to compile the most complete and reliable Directory of Des Moines ever published, will be appreciated by all who are interested in the development of the business, commercial and manufacturing interests of our city. Since our last publication, the city has greatly improved, not only in the number of residences and business houses erected, but numbers of new business firms and manufactories have located here, as will be seen by reference to the business directory. The population has increased over a thousand, now numbering sixteen thousand seven hundred and twenty. The rapid development of the commercial and manufacturing interests of the city, its location in the richest agricultural region of the State, and the prestige of being the capital of the best State in the Union, unmistakably indicates a steady and substantial growth, which will soon make it one of the principal cities of the country. To the friends who have generously patronized us, we extend our hearty acknowledgments. We shall, in the future, publish the DIRECTORY annually.

A BRIEF HISTORICAL AND TOPOGRAPHICAL ACCOUNT OF DES MOINES AND POLK COUNTY, IOWA.

SHOWING THEIR AGRICULTURAL AND COMMERCIAL RESOURCES;
MINERAL WEALTH, AND NATURAL ADVANTAGES.

POLK COUNTY

Lies a little south of the center of the State, having five tiers of counties on the north, and three on the south. It is bounded on the north by Boone and Story, and on the east by Jasper, while Warren lies on the south, and Dallas on the west. It has an area of about 352,500 acres of land.

As the present condition will prove more interesting to the majority of readers than reminiscences of the past, I shall make but a passing allusion to this subject. Polk county was included in the Sac and Fox Reservation until 1842, when it was ceded to the United States, but with the stipulation that possession should not be given until three years from the date of the treaty. The government was required to establish a military post at the junction of the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers, in order to protect these tribes from the depredations of their enemies. This post was soon established and named Fort Des Moines, and one of the log huts still remains to remind the old-settlers of those aboriginal times.

The county was organized under a law of the Territorial Legislature, passed in January, 1846, and the first election was held on the first Monday of the following April. One hundred and seventy-five votes were cast, but the population cannot be reckoned from the number of votes, as is now done. It did not much exceed 300, most of the voters being here without families.

The population now, outside the city, is about 17,000.

TOPOGRAPHY.

The surface of the county is undulating, but in no places rough, and is beautifully diversified with wooded streams and open prairies, the former being sufficiently numerous in places to furnish convenient wood lots for all the settlers. The prinprincipal stream is the Des Moines river, which traverses the county from northwest to southeast. Besides this, there are the Raccoon river, which makes a junction with the Des Moines at the Capital, the Chacaqua, (the Indian name for Skunk), North river, Beaver creek, Walnut creek and Four Mile creek, besides numerous smaller streams. Between these lie the divides, or elevated prairie lands, which rise from the streams in gentle slopes rather than precipitous bluffs.

This alternation of timber and native meadow, hill and vale, produces some beautiful scenery—not grand, but simply beautiful. The road on the divide between the Des Moines river and Beaver creek affords some fine views. At one point the eye commands a view of Beaver valley for many miles in either direction, embracing some of the finest country in the world.

The county is rapidly filling up and being improved by enterprising farmers. The ready market found at Des Moines for everything produced by the farmer, and the rich remunerative yield from everything planted in the soil, are rapidly enriching the farming community.

of the county is found along all the large streams, but the heaviest body is the Des Moines timber, lying on both sides of the Des Moines river, and extending all the way through the county. The number of acres of timber land is not far from 68,000, being about one-fifth of the whole territory. Some of the townships are almost exclusively prairie, but have groves of timber adjoining, while some have even more than is desirable for farming purposes.

MINERALS.

Coal is both abundant and of good quality. It probably underlies a large portion of the county adjacent to the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers, while its existence at a reasonable depth in the prairie townships is yet to be tested by shafting. Enough veins have been discovered, and in such localities as to render it safe to assert that there is enough for local and foreign demand for several generations.

Polk county is located near the center of the coal counties of Iowa. There are about thirty mines operated in the county, and at certain seasons of the year some of the companies employ from seventy-five to one hundred men.

Coal is found in the vicinity of Des Moines in large quantities, supplying the city and vicinity, besides considerable quantities for shipment. It also exists in nearly all the townships throughout the county. Iowa coal is known as bituminous, and is equal in quality to coal of the same class found in other parts of the world, containing (as shown by analysis) only ten parts of impurities to ninety parts of combustible matter.

MINERAL PAINT is found near Des Moines in abundance. Some of the houses are painted with it. If it was manufactured it would be as good as any. So pronounced by judges.

STONE is found in various parts of the county.

DES MOINES.

The prestige and influence of the State capital being removed from Iowa City to Des Moines, the latter has grown up with wonderful rapidity, in the midst of one of the finest agricultural regions in the world. It has the advantages of the contributions of six important railways—the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; the Keokuk & Des Moines; the Des Moines & Ft. Dodge; the Des Moines, Indianola & Missouri; the Des Moines, Winterset & Southwestern; the Des Moines & Minnesota, and others in the way of completion—making it a place of no small importance to those proud of the growth and energy of our young State.

In area, Des Moines includes about twelve square miles, all suitable and laid out for building purposes. The city is spreading with unprecedented rapidity, both in the erection of handsome and comfortable dwellings, and solid, imposing and beautiful business blocks.

The city that should attract most capital and enterprise of the East is Des Moines, the Capital of the State, a city of over 16,000 inhabitants, situated at the junction of the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers, and occupying a sort of amphitheatre, the bluffs rising by gentle acclivities on all sides, affording fine residence sites, while the level portion is large enough to accommodate the business of a large city. The city is not compact, except in the business portion, but scattered over considerable territory, the corporation extending two and a half miles from north to south, and four and a half miles from east to west. The traveler is apt to be deceived in the number of inhabitants, from the fact that the residences are scattered far back on the wooded hills, where they are invisible.

The Des Moines river, which flows through the heart of the city, is spanned by four bridges 600 feet in length, while the Raccoon has also two bridges, affording to South Des Moines and the rich prairie beyond easy communication with the various parts of the city.

On the 22d of September, 1851, the citizens of Fort Des Moines voted to have it incorporated as a town. Hon. P. M. Casady, Rev. Thompson Bird and L. P. Sherman, Esq., were the committee to draft articles of incorporation, which were adopted by the people the 18th of October, 1851.

In 1853, by act of the Legislature, Fort Des Moines was incorporated as a town. At this time, the town had increased to such importance that attention was turned to it as the Capital of the State. Its central geographical location at once induced the sanction of the people of the State, and in 1854 an act was passed by the Legislature designating Fort Des Moines as the Capital of the State. A subsequent convention to revise the State Constitution permanently fixed the Capital at this place.

In 1857 a successful movement was made to incorporate the city of Des Moines. An act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature, and approved by James W. Grimes, Governor, January 28, 1857.

The first election for city officers was held May 4, 1858, on which occasion W. H. McHenry was elected Mayor.

The site on which the city is built is unsurpassed for beauty and pleasant surroundings. From the two rivers extend a rich and fertile plain, skirted with gently undulating hills, or bluffs which are covered with forest trees, among which nest beautiful homes. Within the area encircled by these slopes a population of fifty thousand can be amply accommodated with residences, and yet not be crowded. Great care has been exercised in beautifying and adorning the residences.

The main part of the business is at present done on the west side of the river, but is rapidly reaching over the river.

The surrounding country is abundantly supplied with streams of the purest water, on the banks of which streams are found plenty of different kinds of timber.

The growth of Des Moines has been very rapid since the advent and opening of the railroads.

PRESENT PROSPECTS.

What facilities, it is asked, has Des Moines, either natural or acquired, for becoming the commercial center? We have said that we have citizens who are wide-awake; that we are building extensively and substantially; that we look beyond and beneath all this. Unlike the Iowa cities on the Mississippi and Missouri, which are numerous, Des Moines has no rival. This will allow Des Moines to make a far greater growth than it could otherwise hope to attain. Please take a glance at the map, and think of the prospective roads whose termini will be at Des Moines, and that the roads east, west, north and south, are extending their arms for their share of the merchandise and freight which must come here.

The present cheap rates of real estate, and in view of the large mechanical population which will be brought here in the construction of railroads, the establishing of manufactories, and other works, we know of no other place on the American continent which presents better opportunities for the investment of capital, or which promises a more enduring prosperity.

BUSINESS, MANUFACTURING INTERESTS, &C.

For the Western trade, what town so favorably situated? With the before-named advantages to make it the market for the West, and insuring it cheap transportation from the East, it could not be better situated in reference to this trade. Indeed, the progress already made in this direction is some indication of what may be expected in the future.

The great increase in the population of the western part of our State renders the trade very important, and Des Moines, from its central position, seems destined to become the headquarters for the trade in Iowa.

No city in Iowa presents so good a prospect for the future as Des Moines. In no other is evidence of as much enterprise. In 1857 the city was incorporated. The United States census of 1850, seven years before, placed our population at 515. Three years later, in 1860, it had increased to 4,181, and in the ten years immediately following the gain was 7,854, giving a total population in 1870 of 12,035. Since then our population has increased, until this year it is sixteen thousand seven hundred and twenty.

We learn from our builders and contractors that there has been an unusually large number of dwelling houses erected this last summer. The coming season will probably be one of unusual activity in building, that will witness a large and rapid growth to our city. Few cities in the West can present more actual progress than Des Moines.

In 1866 the first railroad reached Des Moines; now we have six. Two others are partially graded, and one—the St. Louis line—will probably be in operation before many months. No other city in the State is to-day as favorably situated as Des Moines so far as railroads are concerned.

Des Moines has every element necessary to make it a great manufacturing center. Coal is abundant and cheap. An inexhaustible water power is here, and railroads in every direction are ready to bring in the raw material and carry out the manufactured articles. The success of the factories already established and the rapid settlement of the country tributary to the city are warrants for the establishment of many more.

We take pleasure in noticing that Des Moines manufactures are equal in appearance and quality to the best products of Eastern manufacturing cities.

We are in receipt of letters from parties in the East desiring to settle in Des Moines and engage in manufacturing. It is safe to say that more Eastern capital is to-day looking toward Des Moines for investment than toward any other Iowa town.

Viewed in the light of these facts, Des Moines possesses no ordinary interest; and he who studies the situation disinterestedly will not undervalue its importance, or ignore its well-grounded hopes of future prosperity and greatness. It cannot hope to rival Chicago, or eclipse San Francisco, but it may reasonably expect to be the metropolis of Iowa.

RAILROADS OF DES MOINES.

The first train of cars that entered the city came over the Des Moines Valley (now the Keokuk & Des Moines) Railroad, in August, 1866. The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad was completed in September, 1867; the Indianola and Winterset branches about two years since, and the Des Moines & Minnesota Railroad was completed in July, 1874.

Des Moines has now six railroads in operation as follows: Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; H. F. Royce, superintendent, office 100, Third.

Keokuk & Des Moines; H. Coykendall, agent, office Market between Third and Fourth.

Des Moines & Fort Dodge; C. H. Gilmore, superintendent, office Aborn Block.

Des Moines, Indianola & Missouri; H. F. Royce, superintendent, office 100 Third.

Des Moines, Winterset & Southwestern; H. F. Royce, superintendent, office 100 Third.

Des Moines & Minnesota; John W. Ulm, superintendent, office east Locust corner Fourth; and others projected.

Des Moines is fast becoming a railroad center.

Dress and Cloak Making.

There is no one item that perplexes a lady more than "What shall I wear?" "I do not mind buying goods, but I dread getting them made," is an every-day expression. In order to do away, in some measure, with this difficulty, I have recently added a Dress and Cloak making Department to my regular Dry Goods Establishment. So a lady can now order a dress or cloak fitted, made and trimmed at just such price as she desires to pay. The first essential item in wearing apparel is a Perfect Fit.

Without it the most costly goods look unbecoming. Second, style in trimming. "Last, but not least,"

Good Work.

For the first I have secured as superintendent,

Miss Alta Crouse,

a lady so peculiarly adapted to the business that

Her Success in Fitting is Most Wonderful.

For the second we have arranged with a lady of taste, skill and experience, one who does not let a new style escape unnoticed.

Thirdly, we shall not employ ANY but experienced sewers (no apprentices). Any goods placed in our hands to be made that fail in any of these three particulars, will be replaced or paid for, at the option of the customer. In view of the above facts, we modestly solicit so much of your work as you deem it YOUR INTEREST to give.

Newspapers supplied with Printed Sheets "Insides" or "Outsides" at the same rates established by the Co-operative Printing Houses of Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee and other cities.

In the absence of home supplies, the ready-printed sheets of other states have been largely employed by Iowa publishers, thus giving to other states our own home newspapers to herald their enterprises. Recognizing these facts, the State Printing Company has been organized, at the Capital of the State, for the purpose of serving the newspaper press of Iowa with Iowa printed "Insides" or "Outsides" and with a view to the greater development of Iowa resources through her newspapers, heretofore of necessity largely in the interests of neighboring Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri, that supplied the ready-printed sheets.

West'n Farm Journal

(Formerly the Iowa Homestead)

The Leading and Popular Farm and Fireside Paper of the Northwest.

Published every Friday at Des Moines, the Capital of Iowa.

Enlarged November 1st, 1874, to Fifty-Six Columns, making it the

LARGEST AGRICULTURAL WEEKLY

Published on the American Continent.

THE WESTERN FARM JOURNAL has the largest circulation, and is the leading Agricultural Paper north of St. Louis and west of the Mississippi river; the only paper in Iowa devoted wholly to the interests of the farmer; is, in the most liberal sense, an ADVOCATE OF WESTERN INTERESTS, and will aim to be A CORRECT JOURNAL OF WESTERN AGRICULTURE. In the States and Territories of the Pacific Slope it has a larger circulation than any other paper published east of the Rocky Mountains. It is taken through enactment of the Legislature by EVERY ORGANIZED COUNTY IN THE STATE, and kept on file by the County Clerks; publishes a description of all Estrays taken up in the State. It being the only Agricultural Journal in the State of general circulation, and circulating as it does among the more intelligent class of western farmers, is rendered a

MOST EXCELLENT ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

Rates and terms furnished upon application. Correspondence invited.

Terms of Subscription:

Single paper one year, with handsome Oil Chromo "MAKING THE SCRAPBOOK," size 16x20 inches, mounted, with postage all prepaid on both, $2.55. Paper alone, per year (postage prepaid) $2.15.
